

littlechillipadi

It's all about me, my funny funny ideas, the obnoxious way I talk, my wonderful life. Cheers!

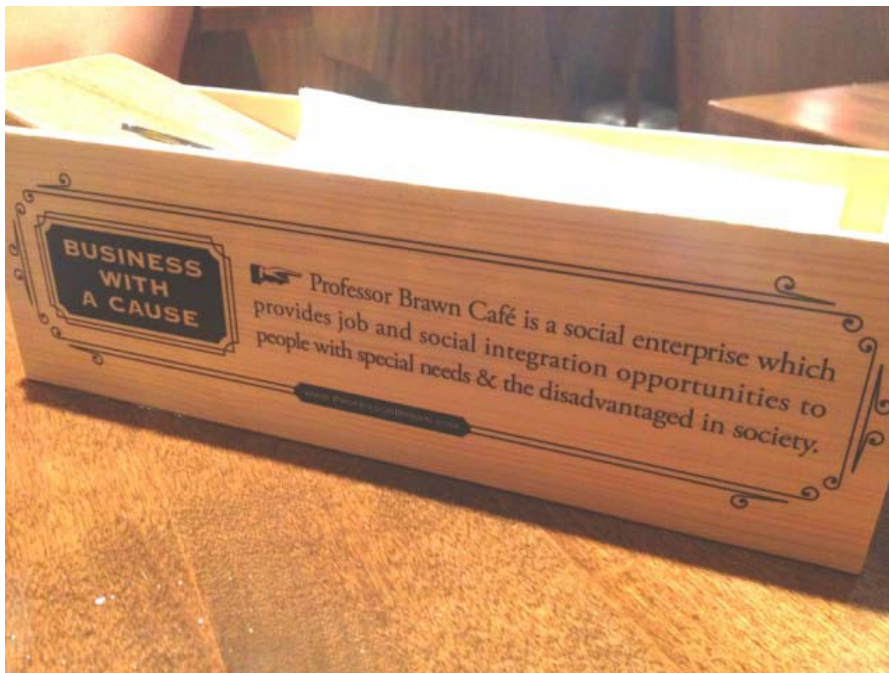

19 September 2012

Professor Brawn Cafe @ Boat Quay

Professor Brawn Cafe is a very unique and special restaurant which a friend, as well as a client, brought me to many months back; it's his's client's cafe.

Usually I snap alot of food pictures with my iphone but only blog them on my mobile/ipad/lappy when I'm free.

What's so special about Professor Brawn Cafe is that: Please view the picture below.

Yes, so they actually give opportunities to people with special needs and employ them as waiters/waitresses. Therefore, I do urge you to show them some support and be a little more patient when you're ordering. For example, speak slower, speak clearly and if you can manage, do look at them(with a smile of course) when you're ordering as some of them need to read your lips. Dont worry if they cant get it right because usually another waitress/waiter will be accompanying them to take your order. So no fret ya!

Despite it being named a cafe, I feel the food's quality, presentation, service, environment wise etc, is all of restaurant quality. Definitely recommended.

Sausage with Rosti
&
Fish & Chips

The prices are pretty affordable and delightful when the portions are big. While I won't say it's the best sausage, rosti and fish & chips in town, it's definitely decent, well-presented and worth a try! Despite being located in Boat Quay, the place is serenely quiet and peaceful. With lush velvet sofas and posh mirrored walls decorated with works by these special people, the place gives a very opulent but yet cosy and comfortable feel. Great for private conversations. Good service. Their black miso cod fish is pretty recommended too. However, I do think the ice-cream are far too sweet for my liking.

They do need your support. Thanks for reading!

<http://littlechillipadi89.blogspot.sg/2012/09/professor-brawn-cafe-boat-quay.html#/2012/09/professor-brawn-cafe-boat-quay.html>